HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSITY

The First 150 Years

Harris-Stowe State University traces its origin back to 1857 when it was founded by the St. Louis Public Schools as a normal school and thus became the first public teacher education institution west of the Mississippi River and the 12th such institution in the United States.

The earliest predecessor of Harris-Stowe State University was a normal school established for white students only by the Public School System of the city of St. Louis. This school was later named Harris Teachers College in honor of William Torrey Harris who had been a superintendent of instruction in the St. Louis Public Schools and also a United States commissioner of education. The College began offering in-service education for St. Louis white teachers as early as 1906. In 1920, Harris Teachers College became a four-year, undergraduate institution, authorized to grant a Bachelor of Arts in Education. In 1924, the College received accreditation from the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges. Accreditation from other agencies followed, including accreditation by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, and the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education.

A second predecessor institution began in 1890 as a normal school for black teachers of elementary schools in the city of St. Louis. This normal school was also founded by the St. Louis Public School System and was an extension of Sumner High School. In 1924, the Sumner Normal School became a four-year institution with authority to grant the baccalaureate degree. In 1929, its name was changed to Stowe Teachers College, in honor of the abolitionist and novelist, Harriet Beecher Stowe.

These two teacher education institutions were merged by the Board of Education of the St. Louis Public Schools in 1954 as the first of several steps employed to integrate the public schools of St. Louis. The merged institution retained the name Harris Teachers College. Later, in response to the many requests from alumni of Stowe Teachers College and members of the greater St. Louis community, the Board of Education agreed to restore to the College's name the word "Stowe" and to drop the word "Teachers."

In 1979, the General Assembly of the State of Missouri enacted Senate Bill 703, under which Harris-Stowe College became the newest member of the state system of public higher education. The institution's name was again changed with the addition of the word "State" and was officially known as Harris-Stowe State College. In addition to the name change, the college's baccalaureate degree was changed to a Bachelor of Science in Education. In compliance with new state standards and teacher certification requirements, the College's teacher education curriculum was modified, and three separate teacher education majors were approved: Early Childhood Education, Elementary School Education, and Middle/Junior High School Education.

In 1981, the College received state approval for a new degree program, the Bachelor of Science in Urban Education. This program is the only one of its kind in the United States at the undergraduate level and is designed to prepare nonteaching urban education specialists who will be effective in solving the many urban-related problems facing today's urban schools.

In 1993, the Governor of the State of Missouri Mel Carnahan signed into law Senate Bill 153, which authorized Harris-Stowe State College to expand its mission in order to address unmet needs of metropolitan St. Louis in various applied professional disciplines. In response to Senate Bill 153, Mission Expansion, the Business Administration Department began operations Fall Semester of 1993 with a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with three options: Accounting, General Business Management, and Management Information Systems. During the fall of 1995, the Bachelor of Science Degrees in Business Administration and Marketing were added. Subsequently, during the fall of 1997, the Bachelor of Science Degree in Health Care Administration was implemented. Mission enhancement has provided the opportunity for Harris-Stowe State College to refine the degree offerings to make the graduates more competitive. A Bachelor of Science in Accounting replaced the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with an option Accounting.

A Bachelor of Science in Hospitality and Tourism Management was added to the curriculum in the fall of 2000. The Bachelor of Science in Information Sciences and Computer Technology with options in Computer Studies, Management Information Science, Computer/Network Analyst option, and Systems/Network Analyst replaced the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with an option in Management Information Systems. The Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with options in General Business Management and Marketing and the Bachelor of Science in Health Care Management have been increased in total credit hours required to 128 to be consistent with the other programs in the Business Administration Department, as well as to accommodate the new state requirement for 42 credit hours of general education course work.

On March 17, 2005, Governor Matt Blunt signed Senate Bill 98 changing the name of Harris-Stowe State College to Harris-Stowe State University, effective August 28, 2005. This name change launched a new level of excellence in the institution's history. The 2006-2007 academic year marked the sesquicentennial anniversary, the 150th year of the founding of Harris-Stowe State University.

THE HARRIS-STOWE STATE UNIVERSITY STUDENT PLEDGE

As a student at Harris-Stowe, I am firmly committed to doing all of the things, within my power, that will enable me to become the kind of graduate of which, I, myself, and my alma mater can be justly proud. To that end, I pledge myself to accomplish the following things throughout my years of study at Harris-Stowe State University and beyond.

To always respect myself, as a person who is endowed with great human dignity, and to always respect others in the very same way;

To exhibit behavior both on the campus and elsewhere — that is commensurate with, and worthy of, a mature person;

To attend my classes on a regular basis, being absent only under circumstances that are beyond my control or that make my absence absolutely necessary;

To not only attend, both regularly and punctually, all of the classes in which I am enrolled, but to also perform academically as well as my abilities permit;

To choose language and dress that are appropriate in a university and in all other environments in which I am a participant, and to always refrain from being belligerent or offensive to others;

To respect the beliefs and customs of others and to also recognize the importance of cooperation within any group of which I am a part;

To be a problem-solver in the various situations that I encounter in life;

To participate actively and constructively in the various events that take place on and off the University campus;

To be honest and sincere in all of my dealings with others.

These actions I solemnly pledge to perform to the very best of my ability.

“No qualified individual with a disability shall, by reason of such disability, be excluded from the participation in or be denied the benefits of the service, programs or activities of any public entity, or be subject to discrimination by any such entity.”

Section 504 of the 1973 Rehabilitation Act

Procedures

The Academic Resource Center is responsible for the coordination of services to students with disabilities as defined by Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act.

Identification

The Academic Resource Center is committed to a reasonable approach in the identification of disabled students. The Academic Resource Center will contact all students who voluntarily identify themselves as having a disability during the University admission or orientation process. Faculty members who observe student learning difficulties that are indicative of a physical/learning disability may refer that student for assistance to the Academic Resource Center.

Students who suspect they have a disability may contact the Academic Resource Center for information regarding disabilities and referrals for a psycho-educational assessment, when needed. In all cases, students who need an assessment to determine their learning disability are responsible for providing the required documentation and the cost of the assessment.

Information regarding a disability will be kept confidential unless the student signs a Release of Information Form, which requires a notarized signature.

Academic requirements that are defined by Harris-Stowe State University as essential to courses, programs of study or any related licensing or certification requirement are not regarded as discriminatory.

Qualified students with a physical disability may be required to provide documentation of their disability to receive any necessary academic modification and or reasonable accommodations.

Learning disabled students are responsible for providing the University with documentation regarding their disability.

Documentation for a learning disability must include psycho-educational assessment that has been done within the last four years to ensure that appropriate academic adjustments are provided. Based upon the specific needs of the student, reasonable accommodations and academic modifications are determined by the faculty involved and The Academic Resource Center personnel.

For students with learning disabilities or, in some cases, students with a physical disability, under the Core Curriculum, the policy for all substitutions requested of required courses are:

- I. A student shall have a psycho-educational assessment that delineates not only the problem, but a prescriptive program for study;
- II. The University shall provide reasonable accommodations in learning opportunities and support for these students; only if the University is unable to provide these reasonable accommodations, shall substitutions for the requirements be sought;
- III. The allowable substitution, if one can be found, shall be determined jointly by the department of the course in question and by the Provost/Vice President for Academic Affairs based on the learning objective of the requirements and; Under no circumstances shall an absolute waiver, with no substitution be made. University Policy on Appropriate Dress

The right of students to include in their wardrobe a broad array of various types, styles, colors, and expressions is fully recognized. All students, however, have a vested interest in the image of Harris-Stowe State University, and certain types of clothing tend to reflect negatively upon the University and tend to disrupt the educational process. The following types of clothing and other items, therefore, shall not be allowed in classrooms, at college-sponsored activities, in any University building including the dining hall, or on the University campus grounds:

Clothing or accessories that contain obscene, profane, or expressions offensive to race, gender, or ethnicity (as determined by the Administration in its sole discretion).

Clothing or accessories that depict nudity, the showing of male and female sex organs, or explicit sexual acts.

Clothing or accessories that condone or sanction violence: jewelry in the form or shape of drugs or drug paraphernalia; clothing, jewelry or other accessories with pictures of drugs or drug paraphernalia, or with expressions that condone or sanction the use of illegal drugs.

Clothing that is sexually explicit or suggestive.

Clothing which expresses any form of ethnic degradation.

Faculty members may exclude from class persons who dress in a manner not consistent with this policy. Persons in authority may exclude from University sponsored events and campus buildings and grounds persons who dress in a manner not consistent with this policy.

Persons who continually dress in a manner not consistent with the policy as stated above may be subjected to disciplinary measures as expressed in the Harris-Stowe State University Student Handbook.

Classroom Conduct

It is imperative that behavior in the classroom does not disturb teaching and learning. The University expects that each student respects professors, classmates, and follows the rules set forth. Texting is not permitted during class. Cell phones must be placed in the silent mode and must be put away in every class, unless individual faculty members make an exception. Students displaying rude and disrespectful behavior towards any member of the faculty, staff or another student during a class period will be subject to disciplinary action, including, but not limited to, the immediate removal from class by either the professor or the Department of Public Safety personnel if necessary.

Sexual Behavior on Campus

Harris-Stowe State University reserves the right to define and limit what constitutes non-acceptable sexual behavior on its campus. Sexual activity which disrespects others and violates common decency is prohibited throughout the entire campus.

Safety and Security

Students must not engage in any activities that will bring harm and/or disrespect to the University. Students are expected to display and present, if necessary, ID badges at all times when on campus.

STUDENT ACADEMIC GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

Harris-Stowe State University is committed to fostering mutual respect among students, faculty, staff, and administration on the campus. In the event of concerns about fairness and equity, we seek to find solutions that do not involve having to resort to formal grievance procedures. However, when such solutions are not possible, we are committed to a formal grievance process that result in fair and reasonable resolutions. Listed below are the procedures for resolution.

What May Be Grieved

This procedure is to be used by students only to resolve grievances against decisions or actions that were made by employees or agents of Harris-Stowe State University. An action or decision is grievable only if it involves a misapplication or misinterpretation of University policy. Grievances may not be used to challenge policies or procedures of general applicability.

What May Not Be Grieved

Issues which have a separate and specific process for resolution (i.e. FERPA, sexual harassment, etc.), are not grievable under this policy and a student must take advantage of the process in place.

Who May Grieve

The procedures set forth below may be used by grievant enrolled as HSSU students. A grievance cannot be filed on behalf of another person.

Time Limits

The formal resolution process described below must be initiated within six weeks of the decision, action, or events giving rise to the grievance. The time limit may be extended by the appropriate unit or sector head with jurisdiction over the grievance, if the grievant makes the request for extension within the six week period, for good cause shown (e.g., an active effort at informal resolution at the departmental level, University level).

Grievance Resolution Process (Academic and Non-Academic)

The grievant should first discuss the issue with the person(s) responsible for the action or decision being grieved. If the issue is not resolved the student will direct the grievant to the next level of authority, whose responsibility it is to assist in bringing resolve to the grievance.

This process will continue through each level of administration until the grievance has been resolved departmentally. If the matter is not resolved in the department, the student may file the concern with the Dean of Student Success

Confidentiality

All persons involved in the grievance procedures are expected to maintain strict confidentiality regarding procedures. State and federal laws govern the privacy rights of students and employees.

Modification

The President may approve modification of the foregoing procedures in a particular case if the modification (a) is for good cause, and (b) does not violate the participants' procedural rights nor the policies of the University's governing board.

Records

The Dean of Student Success shall maintain a confidential record of all communications and documents pertaining to a particular grievance.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT AND SEXUAL VIOLENCE/DISCRIMINATION

HSSU is committed to fostering a safe and supportive environment conducive to the academic pursuit and healthy personal development of all persons. All members of the University community share responsibility for fostering this environment by adhering to standards of conduct. Any form of sexual assault is a serious violation of these standards and will not be tolerated. No faculty member, employee, visitor, contractor, or student shall sexually discriminate against, harass or participate in sexual violence against another faculty member, employee, or student, nor shall any faculty member, employee, visitor, contractor, or student sexually discriminate against, harass or participate in sexual violence against any person with whom they have contact in connection with their employment or academic pursuits. No faculty member, employee, or student shall threaten another current or prospective faculty member, employee, or student by stating, suggesting or otherwise indicating that said individual's refusal to submit to sexual advances or sexual violence will result in adverse job or academic action. No faculty member, employee, or student shall promise or give a current or prospective faculty member, employee, or student any benefit in return for submission to sexual advances, sexual violence or granting sexual favors. Any employment or academic decisions carrying out such threats or promises are likewise prohibited.

Definitions

For purposes of this policy, "sex-based discrimination," "sexual harassment" and "sexual violence" include, but are not limited to, unwelcome sexual advances, violence of a sexual nature, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct or contact of a sexual nature, when:

1. Submission to the conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment or academic success;
2. Submission to or rejection of the conduct by an individual is used as a basis for employment or academic decisions affecting the individual; or
3. A reasonable person would find that the conduct has the purpose or effect of interfering with an individual's work or academic performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive work or academic environment.
4. There is an unequal balance of power and potential for influence between the two people engaged in the sexual or intimate contact, for example, a professor having a sexual or intimate relationship with a student at the University, or a supervisor having a sexual or intimate relationship with a subordinate.

For purposes of this policy, "sexual harassment" and "sexual violence" also include assault, battery, rape, domestic violence, dating violence, stalking, any form of sexual violence whatsoever, and any other similar actions which may be unlawful pursuant to state and federal law.

"Domestic violence" is the use of physical, sexual or emotional abuse or threats to control another person who is a current or former spouse or other intimate partner, such as a boyfriend or girlfriend. It includes felony or misdemeanor crimes of violence committed by a current or former spouse of the victim, by a person with whom the victim shares a child in common, by a person who is cohabitating with or has cohabitated with the victim as a spouse, by a person similarly situated to a spouse of the victim under the domestic or family violence laws of the jurisdiction receiving grant monies, or by any other person against an adult or youth victim who is protected from that person's acts under the domestic or family violence laws of the jurisdiction.

"Dating violence" is violence committed by a person (1) who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with the victim; and (2) where the existence of such a relationship shall be determined based on a consideration of (a) the length of the relationship, (b) the type of the relationship, and (c) the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship.

"Stalking" is a course of conduct directed at a specific person that would cause a reasonable person to: (1) feel fear for their safety; or (2) the safety of others or suffer substantial emotional distress. Stalking includes behaviors or activities occurring on more than one occasion that collectively instill fear in a victim, and/or threaten their safety, mental health, or physical health.

“Sexual assault” means an offense classified as a forcible or non-forcible sex offense under the uniform crime reporting system of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Some additional examples of conduct which can constitute sexual harassment and/or sexual violence include, but are not limited to, such things as:

- (a) unwelcome sexual flirtation, advances, propositions or violence;
- (b) sexually explicit statements, questions, or jokes;
- (c) displays of sexually explicit material (whether audio or visual);
- (d) inappropriate personal comments, staring, or touching;
- (e) remarks of a sexual nature about a person’s body, clothing, or sexual behavior; or
- (f) direct or implied threats that submission to sexual advances will be a condition of employment, promotion, or academic advancement.

The foregoing list is intended to be illustrative rather than exhaustive.

Inquiries concerning the application of these laws to this institution should be referred to the Director of Human Resources Management and EEO/Title IX Coordinator. This policy also applies to the University's selection of contractors, suppliers of goods and services, etc.

The procedures outlined in handling sexual assaults are designed to achieve the following goals:

- Provide prompt and compassionate support services.
- Provide a comprehensive framework in which the needs and decisions of all parties concerned are central in determining further administrative response and assistance.
- Create a campus environment that both facilitates and expedites the prompt reporting of sexual assault.
- Cultivate a climate of community empowerment and education in which behaviors that contribute to sexual assault are not tolerated.
- Ensure that appropriate steps are followed when sexual assault is reported.
- Protect the rights of the reporting Party, the accused party, and other parties involved in or affected by the case.

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES TO REPORT COMPLAINTS OF SEXUAL VIOLENCE

The grievance procedure to address complaints of sexual violence shall be overseen by the University in conjunction with Title IX rules and procedures-as a prompt and equitable corrective action reasonably calculated to end the sexual violence, eliminate the hostile environment, prevent its recurrence and remedy its effects. The University shall not wait to take steps to protect the students until students have already been deprived of educational opportunities. The University shall protect a complainant and ensure his or her safety as necessary including taking interim steps before the final outcome of any investigation. University students are strongly encouraged to, immediately, report any information and incidents which are thought to be inappropriate and unwanted sexual conduct directed towards them, against another, or heard of by others. This information may be reported in confidence.

Any employee of the University is strongly encouraged to, immediately, report any information and incidents which are thought to be inappropriate and unwanted sexual conduct directed towards them, against another, or heard of by others. This information may be reported in confidence to the extent possible. It is strongly encouraged for volunteers, visitors, and any member of the University community to, immediately, report information that appears to be sexual violence and sex discrimination in nature. Sexual violence impairs the ability of a student to fully participate in academic programs, University services, and athletic sports. Employees are impaired from satisfactorily performing their job duties when subjected to sex discrimination and the sexual misconduct by another at work.

The University will take prompt steps once it has notice of a sexual violence allegation. It will provide the complainant with periodic updates on the status of the investigation. If the University finds that sexual violence did occur, the University shall continue to take the necessary steps to protect the complainant and ensure his or her safety, as necessary. The University shall also ensure that the complainant is aware of any available resources such as victim advocacy, housing assistance, academic support, counseling, disability services, health/mental health services, legal assistance, and the right to report a crime to campus public safety and/or local law enforcement.

It is the University's commitment to operate an institution for learning, development, productivity, and achievement within the HSSU community.

- A complainant shall have 10 calendar days in which to file a complaint of sexual violence and sex discrimination. To effectively investigate any complaints, it is to the complainant's best interest to file a complaint immediately upon occurrence.
- The University has provisions for adequate, impartial, prompt, and reliable investigation of all complaints. This includes the opportunity of due process for the complainant and the alleged perpetrator to present witnesses, give testimony, submit evidence, (albeit not necessarily in the presence of one another), and other U.S. Constitution protected rights.

- The evidentiary standard that must be used to resolve a complaint is based upon the preponderance of the evidence, i.e., the existence of the facts is more likely than not.
- The timeframe for completion of an investigation can vary on a case-by-case basis. The University pledges to complete major steps of a complaint process in a prompt, reasonable, and equitable timeframe as determined by the facts and circumstances of each case. A timeframe goal of 60-calendar days refers to the entire investigation process (which includes conducting the fact-finding investigation, holding a hearing or engaging in another decision-making process to determine whether the alleged sexual violence occurred and created a hostile environment, and to determine what actions the University will take to eliminate the hostile environment and prevent its recurrence. This will include imposing sanctions against the perpetrator and provide remedies for the complainant and the University community, as needed). This does not include any time for an appeal process.

- Written notice of the outcome of the complaint will be provided by the University to the complainant and the alleged perpetrator.
- A complainant or an alleged perpetrator shall have right to appeal the outcome of a complaint within 10 calendar days of receipt of the written outcome. Written notice of the outcome of any appeal will be provided by the University to the complainant and the alleged perpetrator.
- The University vows to take steps to prevent the recurrence of any sexual violence and to remedy any discriminatory effects on the complainant and others.
- The University will utilize interim measures to protect a complainant in the educational setting during and after the course of a claim investigation.
- The University and Title IX prohibit the retaliation against any individual who makes a claim of sex discrimination. The University will take strong responsive action if retaliation should occur.
- The University has potential sanctions of various measures against any alleged perpetrator of sexual violence.
- The University prohibits any individual from making a false claim of sex discrimination and/or sexual violence. “False claim” means a claim brought in bad-faith and unsupported by true facts upon its initiation. A false claim does not include a complaint that was brought in good-faith, but later found to be unsubstantiated. Sanctions of various measures will be used against any individual who reports a false claim of sex discrimination and/or sexual violence. It is just as important to the University to protect the rights of an innocent alleged perpetrator as those of an alleged victim.

- Any student has the right to file a criminal complaint against a perpetrator with local law enforcement, as well as file a Title IX complaint simultaneously.

If there is any kind of any sex discrimination or sexual misconduct directed towards you or another, please contact the: Add name of Title IX Coordinator, Harris-Stowe State University, Office of Human Resources, 3026 Laclede Avenue, Suite 103, St. Louis, Missouri, 63103-2136, 314-340-3340.

- Harris-Stowe State University has jurisdiction over all Title IX complaints. Any matter which relates to sex discrimination, sexual violence, sexual harassment, and sexual misconduct² must be reported immediately to: Rhonda Wesley, Title IX Coordinator, Harris-Stowe State University, Office of Human Resources, 3026 Laclede Avenue, Suite 103, St. Louis, Missouri, 63103-2136, 314-340-3340. (ADD EMAIL TO ALL OF THESE)
- The University has a reporting policy and an established protocol to fully gather all facts, circumstances, and information relevant to any alleged complaint of sex discrimination.
- The employee(s) responsible for evaluating requests for confidentiality may be found at: : Rhonda Wesley, Title IX Coordinator, Harris-Stowe State University, Office of Human Resources, 3026 Laclede Avenue, Suite 103, St. Louis, Missouri, 63103-2136, 314-340-3340. (ADD EMAIL TO ALL OF THESE)

² See page 7 for examples of sex discrimination.

- The University’s primary concern is for the safety of its students and employees. Use of alcohol or drugs never makes the victim of sexual violence as an individual at fault – REPORT THE ACT.

CONFIDENTIALITY:

- With the complainant’s request, and to the fullest extent possible, the University will investigate a report of sex discrimination as confidential in nature and as privileged information. In the event that some information must be disclosed in furtherance of investigating any complaint, the University will disclose selective information (only to the extent necessary and on a need-to-know basis) that is to be used only for complaint resolution for the safety of the victim, other students, employees, volunteers, and visitors. The Title IX Coordinator and school officials are best suited to evaluate those requests for confidentiality.
- Under some applied laws and statutes, the University must adhere to a request to inspect and review information about allegations maintained by the University. In such a case, the University may redact the complainant’s name and all identifying information of the complainant before allowing the perpetrator to review the allegations. Or, the University will inform the alleged perpetrator of the specific information in the complaint that is about the alleged perpetrator.
- The University will always need to balance whether it can honor a student’s request not to disclose his or her name to the alleged perpetrator against the responsibility to provide a safe and nondiscriminatory environment for all students including the student who reported the sexual violence.

RESPONSIBLE EMPLOYEES AND REPORTING:

Each employee and member of the Harris-Stowe State University community have a role in preventing the occurrence of sexual violence and reporting its occurrence if it should happen.

<http://www.hssu.edu/ae/aefiles/39/Anonymous-Sexual-Assault-Form.pdf>

When an employee knows or reasonably should know of possible sexual violence, the University is deemed to have notice of the sexual violence. The University is obligated to take immediate and appropriate steps to investigate and determine what has occurred. If the University determines that the sexual violence has created a hostile environment, the University has an obligation to take the appropriate steps to address the situation.

A responsible employee must immediately report in writing to the University’s Title IX coordinator all the relevant details about the alleged sexual violence that the student or another person has shared. The University will need to determine what occurred and shall move to resolve the situation. This includes reporting the name of the alleged perpetrator, the student who experienced the alleged sexual violence, other students involved in the alleged sexual violence, as well as all relevant facts, such as date, time, and location.

A responsible employee has an obligation to immediately report in writing any sexual misconduct, sex discrimination, sexual harassment, and sexual violence³ perpetrated one against another. Failure to report such will have punitive consequences against the responsible employee.

A responsible employee must understand that they do not need to determine whether the alleged sexual harassment or sexual violence actually occurred, nor determine that a hostile environment has been created before reporting an incident to the University's Title IX coordinator. The responsible employee fulfills the obligation by mere reporting, in writing, of the details and information related to a possible sexual misconduct occurrence.

ADDITIONAL UNIVERSITY POLICIES:

Harris-Stowe State University strives to provide a safe campus conducive for learning, achieving, and developing. To that end, it is imperative that all students, employees, volunteers, and visitors are informed of the following:

The University will, upon written request, disclose to the alleged victim of a crime of violence, or a non-forcible sex offense, the results of any disciplinary hearing conducted by the University against the student who is the alleged perpetrator of the crime or offense. If the alleged victim is deceased as a result of the crime or offense, the University will provide the results of the disciplinary hearing to the victim's next of kin, if so requested.

- Written warning which will be filed in the student's file maintained at the University;

Harris-Stowe State University will conduct a biennial review of its program to provide a drug-free and alcohol abuse-free environment on its campus and at campus-sponsored activities. The purpose of this review is:

- To determine the effectiveness of the program and to implement changes, if warranted;
- To ensure that all disciplinary sanctions are consistently, fairly and vigorously enforced;
- To ensure that the University will maintain appropriate records to establish its compliance with this program.

Drug and or Alcohol Counseling, Treatment or Rehabilitation or Re-entry Programs that are available to Employees and Students

Each semester, Harris-Stowe State University offers a drug-free awareness program, which is conducted by the University's Office of Counseling Services in conjunction with the Office of Health Services. This program, open to both students and employees, will include the dissemination of printed materials and also include periodic meetings and or conferences designed to inform all students and employees regarding:

The dangers of drug abuse and its effect on academic and personal success;

The University's policy of maintaining a drug-free campus;

The penalties that may be imposed upon students and employees for drug and alcohol abuse violations occurring on campus.

The Office of Counseling Services will provide referral services and programs offered through that office and also through various community agencies.

Hazing

Harris-Stowe State University has always renounced acts of brutality and hazing during the intake process, and this statement serves to reaffirm that long-standing commitment. "Hazing" is any action taken or situation that recklessly or intentionally endangers the mental or physical health or safety of a student for purposes, including but not including, but not limited to, initiation or admission into or affiliation with any organization operating under the sanction of the University. "Hazing" includes, but is not limited to, pressuring or coercing the student into violating state or federal law, any brutality of a physical nature, such as whipping, beating, branding, exposure to the elements, forced consumption of any food, liquor, drug, or other substance, or other forced physical activity that could adversely affect the physical health or safety of the student, and also includes any activity that would subject the student to extreme mental stress, such as sleep deprivation, forced exclusion for social contact, forced conduct that could result in extreme embarrassment, or other forced activity that could adversely affect the mental health or dignity of the student. In addition, late work sessions which interfere with scholastic activities, and any other activities which are not consistent with policies of Harris-Stowe State University or which violate local, state or federal laws, are expressly forbidden. Anyone violating this policy will be subject to disciplinary action, and may also face criminal prosecution.

Cognizance and understanding of the above definition and the use of common sense in the carrying out of intake activities should be sufficient to guide campus chapters to avoid hazing violations. A good rule of thumb is: "IF IN DOUBT, LEAVE IT OUT".

All Harris-Stowe State University students and student organizations must adhere to the State of Missouri antihazing legislation. According to State Statutes (573.360-578.365). Chapter members and advisors are responsible for seeing that the intake process follows steps prescribed by their respective national offices, within HSSU guidelines. No chapter or member is "above the law.” All participants should be urged to remember that the intake process is designed to prepare new “sisters” and “brothers”, and hazing has no place in this important process.

Furthermore as hazing is forbidden, the University informs all students, employees, volunteers, and visitors that:

A person commits the crime of hazing if he/she knowingly participates in or causes hazing, as it is defined in section Mo.R.S. 578.360 and the University. Hazing is a class a misdemeanor. Consent is not a defense to hazing.

WILLIAM L. CLAY SR. EARLY CHILDHOOD DEVELOPMENT/PARENTING EDUCATION CENTER

Harris-Stowe State University opened the William L. Clay Sr. Early Childhood Development/Parenting Education Center in the fall of 2009. The center is a safe, healthy and comprehensive child development facility providing full-day learning experiences for children 6 weeks to 5 years of age. This magnificent program is designed to encourage the social, emotional, physical and cognitive development of a diverse population of children, while embracing their needs and interests to explore, discover, experiment and examine their world through play. In this literacy-rich environment, children are introduced to the Spanish language, and technology will fully complement the chosen curriculum.

The center’s faculty and staff understand and respect parents as children’s first teachers and as such, have included an educational component to support parents in increasing their knowledge of child development and strengthening their parenting skills. To that end, the center houses a comfortably furnished resource library for parents where they can relax quietly and read or borrow research-based materials on child development and child-rearing practices. For additional information, including unsubsidized and subsidized fee schedules, please go to the Early Childhood Center’s Web site at www.hssu.edu/earlychild/.

THE ACADEMIC RESOURCE CENTER (ARC)

HGA ARC (bottom floor) (314) 340-3650

The Academic Resource Center is located in HGA bottom floor, in the east wing of the bottom floor, and provides basic Skills Courses, professional tutoring, media technology, workshops and personnel to assist and support all students and faculty in academic achievement.

Services and programs include:

- Tutoring Labs
- Basic Skills and Test Preparation Courses/Workshops
- The University Testing Service
- Academy for College Preparation
- GED Testing

The Tutoring Laboratories, HGA 307C and HGA 307D, are used to remedy academic deficiencies and to assist with University course work and are available to all Harris-Stowe students. Students needing assistance with reading, writing, speaking, mathematics, statistics or mathematical applications in the natural sciences may use the services of the laboratories, or instructors may refer their students. Communication skills and mathematics tutors are degree-holding professionals who work with students individually or in small groups.

The Tutoring Laboratories also offer topical workshops and standardized test preparation seminars, and they disseminate standardized test preparation materials. Small reference libraries with printed materials, computer software and audiovisual aids are housed there too. Students may use certain test-preparation packages and reference materials in the laboratories, and some reference materials are available to faculty on short-term loan.

During the academic year, ARC provides a day and evening schedule, Monday through Thursday, and a morning schedule on Friday.

Request for Academic Modification or Reasonable Accommodations

The student is responsible for contacting ARC ADA personnel to review his or her concerns and develop a plan for accommodation or modification;

If a student feels that the accommodations or modifications, which have been determined to be appropriate, do not meet his or her standards, he or she has the right to petition for an appeal.

All actions processed under this provision will require authorization from the Office of the Provost/Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Basic Skills Test Preparation Course Program

Among the responsibilities of the department is the delivery of basic skills instruction. Each semester, a capable and energetic faculty offers courses in communication, arts and mathematics to those students whose placement test scores indicated a need for developmental work. One purpose of the Basic Skills Courses is to help students to overcome academic deficiencies so that their potential for success in university-level course work increases. A secondary, but related purpose of these courses is to prepare students to improve their performance on standardized tests.

The University Testing Service

The ARC area also houses the University Testing Service (UTS) responsible for the administration of placement and standardized tests.

To ensure that no student is placed in a University course for which he or she may not be prepared, each semester, UTS administers a battery of placement tests to entering freshmen and transfer students with fewer than 32 hours of University course work. In addition, UTS conducts the Official College Basic Academic Subjects Examination for students needing to meet certification requirements for the state of Missouri. Students who need to take this exam should check the most recent class schedule or report to UTS to receive additional information.

Intercollegiate Athletics

The intercollegiate athletic program at Harris-Stowe State University is a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and the American Midwest Conference (AMC). Competition offered for men is the sports of soccer, basketball, and baseball and for women in soccer, volleyball, basketball and softball.

Harris-Stowe Cheerleaders

The Harris-Stowe Cheerleaders are a group of men and women who enthusiastically support the University's intercollegiate athletic teams. They accompany the teams to their intercollegiate events and encourage spirit and enthusiasm for the University teams. Each year tryouts are held under the supervision of the cheerleader sponsor. Throughout the year, practice sessions are scheduled in preparation for home and away athletics events.

Intramural Program

The University offers a program of intramural athletic activities to all members of the University community — students, faculty and staff at all levels. Competition in the various sports is available at both the individual and team level. Although instruction in the rules and skills specific to the various games is provided, such instruction is not the major emphasis. Rather, the program's main focus is on the cultivation of the needed skills for recreational purposes and on the joy and comradeship available in such activities. Among the recreational athletic activities included in the intramural program are: basketball and flag-football. Other activities can be arranged based on the interest of students, faculty and staff.

Eligibility

Harris-Stowe State University requires that all participants in intercollegiate athletics be in good academic standing, as determined by the University. To participate in intercollegiate athletics, students must maintain a prescribed cumulative GPA and be a full-time student during each semester of athletic participation. Athletes must also adhere to the rules and regulations set forth by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

Financial Aid for Athletes

Harris-Stowe State University provides athletic awards for qualified students. The awards cover University fees and the cost of textbooks (either totally or partially). Determination of students who qualify for these awards is made by the University's Athletic Director and the coach of the specific sport in which the athlete will compete.
